Four Riley AFS semi-finalists are chosen

THE FOUR A.F.S. SEMI-FINALISTS from Riley have been announced. They are Connie Messerly, Joyce Bowers, Nancy Brown and John Olmstead. These four were chosen by means of an interview from a field of 19 other junior applicants. Their names will be sent to New York, where the finalists will be chosen.

There are three different American Field Service programs. One is the summer program in which the period abroad is from 6 to 10 weeks during June, July, and August. In the foreign country a student becomes a "son" or "daughter" of a host family, sharing in its daily life and activities. Another program is the school program - northern hemisphere. In this program, students are abroad for approximately 8 to 12 months. Students leave the U.S. at any time from June, 1964, to early September, 1964, depending on the students placed and the program in which the student participates.

QUALIFICATIONS DIFFER SLIGHTLY between the school and summer program; however, the school program requirements are the more difficult of the two.

The student must be a member of the Junior class when he applies. The person must be an excellent student with a sound academic background. Such an academic record is necessary in order to handle the rigorous school schedule abroad.

P. T. A. sponsors an open house for parents

THE RILEY P.T.A. sponsored an open house, followed by the first meeting, on Oct. 15, at Riley.

The first portion of the program, from 7:00 to 7:55 p.m., was the open house. During this time the parents were invited to see the new addition and to meet their sons' and daughters' teachers. Students were stationed in the halls to guide the parents to the various teachers' rooms.

THE MEETING WAS HELD from 8:30 to 9:00 p.m. in the auditorium. Speakers included Mr. Donald Dake, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of the department of instruction; Mr. William Mueller, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of buildings and grounds; and Mr. Oliver Ogden, a representative from Maurer and Maurer, architects. They explained the building program now under way at Riley and also discussed plans for future expansion.

After the meeting booths were set up to accept application blanks for this year's P.T.A. membership. This was done in connection with the annual October Membership Drive. Any parents interested in joining are urged to attend the meetings and obtain an application blank.

THE P.T.A. HAS PLANNED the program for the coming year so that all parents will have a more comprehensive understanding of educational problems today.

(Copied from The Indiana Daily Student)

"Assignment USA" is I.U.'s multi-national foreign journalist group project administered by the department of journalism and the United States Department of State. The program is directed by Professor Floyd G. Arpan, journalism professor.

This year 12 outstanding foreign journalists from 11 nations have been invited by the Department of State to take part in this four-and-a-half-month program, which is designed to give the journalists the greatest possible exposure to American living. The journalists have the opportunity to see democracy in action on national, state, and local levels and to examine the mechanics of America's free press.

Two definite requirements of the journalists are that they be between 25 and 45 years old and that they have a reasonable command of the English language so that they can participate in "depth reporting" investigation of the U.S. under I.U. direction.

Prof. Arpan said that general seminar system in which the journalists are encouraged to express themselves freely gives them a chance to get acquainted with American ideas and systems without being misguided. Group discussions, lectures, and laboratory periods in other departments are also included in the academic phase of the program.

Prof. Arpan said that the advantages of a multi-national program were that there could be a "meshing" of ideas from persons from many nations, and that the journalists could get a better perspective of world problems. The journalists strive for the goal of securing an honest view of American life and the ability to interpret American views and policy to the news media of their respective countries.

Our Riley Library's assets and rules are listed and explained for student body

The Riley High School Library, as a study and materials center, offers a variety of materials, facilities, and services for the use of the students and faculty. With a collection of 8621 hard-back books and 742 paper-backs covering an endless number of subjects, this library is rated as one of the best in the schools of Indiana. Supplementing the books are subscriptions to sixty-five current periodicals and leading magazines—some which have five-year accumulations—and five newspaper subscriptions. These newspapers include The Indianapolis Star, the Manchester Guardian, the National Observer, the New York Times, and the Christian Science Monitor.

Since the fall of the last school year a new system in our library, or "the new idea," has been in effect. This new system was started to bring the facilities of the library closer to the students and faculty and is being widely admired and copied by many other schools. Under this plan teachers are encouraged to schedule their classes to the library laboratory as regularly as possible. Teachers may also send individuals and small groups to the library for research. However, only one class group will be scheduled for a period.

The library has proven to be a very popular place so far this semester with 4,730 students using the library in September. This number does not include those who were in the library before school, during home room period, or after school. A total number of 2,239 books were withdrawn and many more reference books, which must stay in the library, were used.

As in all good libraries, attendance during the school day is by an admit, which may be secured from the subject teacher. Students who have free periods are encouraged to use this time in the library—either for library work or for recreational reading. Incidentally, a student is allowed to do pleasure reading in our library even in books checked out from the South Bend public libraries. However, if a student goes to the library, he must stay the entire period. This cuts down on disturbances in the halls.

The staff of Riley's library is comprised of 50 students and the two head librarians, Miss Josephson and Mrs. Leatherman. As Miss Josephson aptly put it, "The library is the barometer of the type of education found in the entire school."

Law interests orator Carter Keithley

By JOAN REDLING

If there is anyone who has a busy schedule at Riley, it is Senior Carter Keithley. Besides carrying five solids—government, English VII, Typing I, English Literature, and Algebra IV—he holds an after-school job. He is employed in a firm which advertises for the Studebaker Corporation. But this is not all. Carter is the President of his Senior Class and home room, a board member of the Drama Club, on Booster Club Council, active in the Speech Club, and a member of the National Honor Society. He was also prince of last year's Junior Prom.

He is excellent speaker

Carter is noted for his fine public-speaking ability. In his junior year he participated in the oratorical interpretation division of the Indiana Forensic League Speech contest. After winning the sectional and regional titles with his interpretation of a Clarence Darrow trial plea, he went on to take the Indiana State Championship in his division at Indianapolis. His success continued when he gained the First Place Trophy for Speech at the Howe Military Academy. Because of his numer-

Seniors rave about new classes in English Literature

An English Literature class is offered to seniors at Riley for the first time in several years. The course, taught by Mrs. Bohan, will cover the history of English literature and will give college-bound students cultural enrichment to help them in their college years.

The class has read and studied Beowulf and Chaucer's prologue to Canterbury Tales. They have given reports on the Arthurian Legend, and are presently listening to English ballads and Camelot, based on the Arthurian legend.

A few seniors who are now taking the course had these comments about it:

Rick Williams: "I'm getting a better understanding of English literature for college, because we study into our reading more deeply than a regular English class does."

"I love it! I think it's the best course that the school has ever offered. It gives us a chance to study English literature of various periods, such as Anglo-Saxon, Elizabethan, Victorian Age, etc. I'm discovering a wealth of new literature," said Diane McCord.

Judy Miller: "I think it gives us an excellent opportunity to get the literature that English VII and VIII just doesn't offer. We are really learning a lot of new words and things that will benefit us on our college board exams. And Mrs. Bohan is just wonderful!"

ON THE AVENUE

Mr. Burns had a real hootenanny in his second hour junior English class the other day. After he had bragged about his singing ability, Pam Pearson brought her guitar to class to test the prof's word. Sure enough, he really could chortle to the sound of the strings, and did it so well that afterwards he received a rousing ovation from his class along with mixed shouts of bravo!

O. T. A.

How much horsepower do you have? After Mr. Clayton's physics classes finished testing for their horse powers, absolutely no one felt like dragging a car. The experiments consisted of racing up the cement stairs out back to the tune of a stopwatch and the various taunts of fellow students. The first hour class even held the attention of the swimming team, which had been out back doing warm-up exercises, and the band. Later in this same class, John Weber brought cheers by doing push-ups, Leonard Means by chinning himself on the goalposts, and Jim Welling jumped off a wall or two. Needless to say, the physics classes are anxiously awaiting more lab periods of this kind.

O. T. A.

O. T. A. would like to print a retraction. Someone steered us wrong when he stated that Beth Miller is an imaginary character in the freshman class. Brian really does have a twin sister. Sorry, Beth.

O. T. A.

Fourth hour bookkeeping class really had a blast ribbing Mr. _____ about his handwriting. Linda Capps offered to valiantly save the day by showing her style with the letters. Unfortunately, Linda proved to be equally unpopular at the blackboard and was promptly recalled to her seat. —ALISON and ELLEN

Two girls review differences of college life from high school

The step a young person takes when he goes from high school to college is a big one. There's a world of difference between the two, as is illustrated by the comments from two newcomers to college.

Barbara Soretsky, of Mount Vernon, New York and Mimi Giblin, or Ridgewood, New Jersey, have each completed their first year of college. Barbara attends the enormous University of Minnesota. Mimi's choice is the relatively tiny Rosemont College in Rosemont, Pennsylvania, a suburb of Philadelphia.

When both girls were asked about how they felt about their first year in college, they gave some revealing answers which will interest all of you who are looking ahead to college a little less than a year from now. Both girls are 18, both are wildly enthusiastic about their schools. And, though their colleges vary greatly, their experiences are quite similar. Barbara's first comment was, "Well, living so far away from home, of course, and getting used to having a roommate." Mimi added, "You're considered a mature person, able to make decisions for yourself." Both girls agreed that this included freedom in both intellectual and social life.

On the all-important subject of classes Barbara has found that, "Tests are less frequent and homework is on a larger scale." Mimi said, "The way classes are presented is very different. In high school you're taught by repetition. In college they open a path and allow you to travel on it, opening your own routes."

Mimi, perhaps a bit more than Barbara, fell into the common freshman trap of "joining." Too many clubs, sports and activities had her dashing breathlessly, with too little time to really contribute to any particular thing. "I've learned it's better to be an active, good member of a few clubs than belong to a dozen where you're not even recognized." Barbara's time problem differed a bit, "I'm the kind of person who can't do too many things at once, but it's hard to say no, when so many people are after you to join something. And there's no one to remind me, like Mother did, that room cleaning, laundry, gab sessions plus class work, take up time."

Both girls found the living environment completely different. Barbara summed it up nicely when she said, "The biggest change for me is living in a young world, always having girls my own age around. It's easy to make friends in a dorm."

many activities which he is in now and has been participating in have greatly benefited him. He considers his selection of a definite goal as a very important goal in his life; but even more important, he feels, is the intense ambition and determination that were needed to achieve it. This very point is one he advises to underclassmen, "Choose a goal and go after it." Another belief of Carter's is the importance of gaining a good general knowledge while paying stricter attention to one specialized field.

Appreciates strict teacher

Carter appreciates a strict teacher. He enjoys an instructor who teaches on the college level, who gives the students responsibility, and who inspires them so that they want to really learn.

Carter believes that having a sense of humor is a very helpful asset. Possessing this quality enables a person to laugh at himself in an embarrassing or humorous situation when other people laugh at him, instead of becoming hurt and upset. Carter can laugh right along with others, and he avoids this mistake of taking life too seriously. Carter's philosophy in life hinges on "The ability to laugh at yourself."

Two days' vacation

By CORKY LIEBERMAN

Two days' vacation from school! Don't forget, the teachers are getting a vacation from us too. The faculty, however, doesn't have a vacation like ours as they are expected to attend meetings of the North Central Teachers Association or the Teachers' Union on both days.

Now, what is the NCTA? The meetings which will take place on Oct. 24 and 25 are to bring to the teachers in the North Central district new and improved ideas. During the past year there have been many improved and new ideas developed in teaching methods and curriculum planning which the teachers will be informed about at these meetings.

Riley Glee Club to sing

Our own Riley Glee Club will be singing at the first session on Oct. 24 at 9:30 a.m. at John Adams High School. Kenneth R. Olin will preside. This morning meeting is the inspirational session and will consist of music, a memorial service, announcements, election, and an address on Our Threatened Values by Max Freedman, the Washington correspondent on the Manchester Guardian.

In the afternoon there will be two separate sessions, both beginning at 1:30 p.m. One will take place at the Morris Civic Auditorium with J. R. Miller of LaPorte presiding. After music by the LaPorte High School students there will be an address on Science and Education Today by Dr. George K. Sweitzer, research director from the University of Tennessee.

May attend Central

If they prefer, the teachers may attend the session taking place at the same time but at Central High School. The music will be provided by the Boys' Choral Group from Mishawaka High School. The address, which will be given by Borden R. Purcell, director of Professional Relations, ISTA, is called Blueprint for a Profession.

A concert by the combined North Central Division Choir and Orchestra with two guest conductors will be presented at 7:30 on Thursday evening in the John Adams auditorium.

Earnest study begins

Friday morning the study within their respective fields begins in earnest. There are many different sections for the teachers in a Senior High School. The available programs consist of the administration section, audio-visual, business education, classical and modern languages, driver education, English, guidance, home economics, industrial education, library, mathematics, music, and vocal music. Also included are school nurses, physical education, science, social studies, and speech.

The teachers will meet within their respective groups at 9:30 a.m. in the various schools at which the programs are given. At this time they will either attend a clinic or listen to an address.

Chance to air opinions

The clinic consists of the teachers attending the meeting discussing their problems, ideas, methods, and other matters pertaining to their subjects. This gives them a chance to air their opinions and problems. There is also a chance that they may listen to a guest speaker on a topic relating to the subject rather than attend one of these clinics.

After attending lunch they will

RILEY CLUBS

BOOSTER CLUB

Margie Wallis is serving as president of the Booster Club at Riley this year. Susie Ryan is vice president, Mary Beth Parsons is secretary, and Kathy Sweitzer, treasurer. Mr. Simpson is the club's sponsor.

The Booster Club promotes support of school activities and gives financial aid to other clubs when needed. The club has a membership of 56 and raises money through cookie sales, the sale of coin holders and through its booth in the carnival.

Getting athletic pictures put up in the school is one of its major projects for the year. It also helps with the send-off for teams when they play away from home and holds a Trophy Trot dance during the year.

Anyone may join the Booster Club and participate in its activities. Prospective members are reminded, however, that it is a hard working club dedicated to its area of service.

WETL

WETL, the South Bend Community School Corporation radio station, will begin its weekly high school broadcasts shortly. Richard Balough is Riley's reporter for this year. The purpose of these broadcasts is to inform the students in each of the Corporation high schools about what is happening in each of the other schools.

Broadcasts last year were given for the four city schools, Riley, Adams, Central, and Washington, and each school was heard from each week. Since several schools have been added to the Corporation since last year, this is no longer possible. The broadcasts will continue on a weekly basis, but Riley, like each of the other schools, will be heard from every other week.

The broadcasts will take place on Thursday mornings from 9:15 to 9:30. Home room teachers may notify the office whether or not they wish to have the broadcasts on in their home rooms.

go back to their meeting where they may once again attend a clinic or listen to a speaker.

After hearing what the teachers will be doing we wonder if this is a vacation? Yes! The school administration believes that they need a time away from us sometime between September and Thanksgiving just as we need a break from the monotony of school work.

USHER CLUB

Riley is indebted to the Usher Club because of the services it performs. The Usher Club is strictly a service club, but not limited to the school. This club does services for the community also. The tremendous amount of work done by the Usher Club is shown in the number of hours given by the senior members. This number is 500.

Heading the 40 present members is Ray Wright as President. Mr. John Clayton sponsors the club. The only qualification for a prospective member is that he have the desire to improve Riley. Meetings are held during home room period in room 313.

In the past few years the Riley Carnival has become one of the high points of the year. Usher Club takes an important part in this event by being one of the co-sponsors. However, this is not the only activity. At all the plays and athletic events Usher Club members are present to supervise.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

The Current Events Club has as its sponsor R. C. Thompson. Officers have not been elected as yet.

The club has as its purpose the promoting of interest in the major events that are occurring in the world today. A mock U.N. session is being planned for next fall. Any student interested in discussing current events may join the club. The club meets in room 109 during home room period.

South Bend Public Library

The South Bend public library has a fine record in the field of civic activities. Most of the activities that the library sponsors concern adults. However, since this summer a program entitled "Let's Talk About Books" has been conducted.

"Let's Talk About Books" is held in the meeting room on the second floor, south corridor of the Main Library. It meets at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

Such a program as this is meant to be very informal. All those that come are urged to join in the discussion and speak freely. Books with special interest to teenagers are discussed and topics which tend to bore the participants are left out.

The books to be discussed in the near future are:

October 23—

"Seven Days in May"—Kneble (this is a very modern book just recently published)

November 6—

"1984"—Orwell

December 4—

"Catcher in the Rye"—Salinger

January 8—

"Young Man With a Horn"—Baker

Miss Nancy Hunt, Young Adult Librarian, is in charge of this program, and any student with questions or who has an interest in the program should see or call her.

A course for students

A course for students who wish to prepare for employment during the Christmas holiday season is being offered by the Distributive Education Division of the South Bend Community School Corporation. Training will include how to apply for a job, sell merchandise, the techniques of stock care and merchandising methods.

Those wishing to take the course should register in a counselor's office no later than Thursday, Oct. 17. Employment cannot be assured to those taking the course but a certificate will be given each person who completes the course. In addition, the Indiana State Employment Service will take job applications and will assist in job placements.

There will be no cost to students for taking the course. Meetings will be held from 4 to 5:30 P.M. in the Central High School auditorium, 317 W. Washington Street, room 316. The dates of the six course sessions are Tuesday, Oct. 22, Wednesday, Oct. 23, Tuesday, Oct. 29, Wednesday, Oct. 30, Tuesday, Nov. 5, and Wednesday, Nov. 6.

Riley plays Central at School Field tonight

Wildcats win at Michigan City

Riley gained a 7-0 Northern Indiana Conference football triumph over Michigan City last Friday night at Michigan City when Jim Lilley recovered a blocked punt in the end zone. Only a little over six minutes remained in playing time after the score was made and the Red Devils were unable to rally.

The game was a defensive battle throughout most of the contest with neither team succeeding in penetrating the 25-yard line up until the winning play was made. Riley punted nine times and the Red Devils' eight times.

The Wildcats moved in the last quarter from their own 36 to inside the Michigan City one-yard.

But on a fourth and goal situation quarterback Tim MacDonald failed to gain the necessary yardage and Michigan City took over.

The Red Devils then moved the ball out to the four-yard line and attempted to punt. Pat McBride kicked to near mid-field, but the play was called back by an offside penalty and Riley made good on its second chance.

With 6:09 left, McBride again went back to punt, this time with the ball on the two, but end Milt Pittman rushed in to block the kick and Lilley made the game winning recovery.

Riley was given a clipping penalty which nullified another score. John Walz intercepted a Michigan City aerial and returned it 25 yards for an apparent touch-down.

The victory gave the Wildcats a 3-1 league record and a 5-1 mark for the season. It was their third win in a row. The summary:

Freshman squad wins fifth game

Riley's freshman football team continued its winning ways by defeating LaPorte 25 to 12 in the game played last week in LaPorte. This was the team's fifth straight conference win.

Coach Wally Gartee took a squad of 54 to the game which indicates the reserve strength available at Riley.

Joe Kovatch, quarterback, and Pat Shelton both scored in the game. Good defensive players in the game were Mike Stanek, Roosevelt Martin, Tony Nemeth and Hank Mayfield.

B-team ties

Riley's B-football squad was forced to settle for a 6 to 6 tie with Central in a game played Monday night on Riley's home field.

Coach Steve Horvath's players scored in the first quarter and appeared headed for another victory. Central, however, tied the game in the last two minutes of play.
